

The Skinny on Stereochemistry

← You need a wedge and a dash on each chiral center. Do not use three lines and one wedge or dash.

← The wedge and the dash need to be next to each other. Do not put them across from each other.

← The wedge and the dash need to be on the side of the carbon with more room. Do not put them on the inside of the smaller bond angle.

